

A MILITANT CRITIQUE of LABOR NOTES

for a FIGHTING WORKERS MOVEMENT

For decades in the United States, union leaders tied to the Democratic and Republican parties have traded away our power for labor peace with the ruling class.

Thousands of workers will soon gather at the Labor Notes conference in Chicago. But Labor Notes organizers and like-minded union bureaucrats will make every attempt to steer participants' energy back into the dead-end of Democratic Party politics and class collaboration.

We are building something different. Worker militants from across the union movement are coming together in Chicago for an alternative event to discuss and advance our common goal of transforming our unions into fighting organizations, independent of the bosses, their political parties, and their government.
